Context and background

LMI-Euniv is funded under the Erasmus Strategic Partnership Programme in the “Cooperation partnerships in higher education” funding sub-programme. The primary focus of the project is to analyse and understand the use of labour market intelligence in European universities, identifying main LMI sources at national level and creating a collaborative network that promotes teamwork in order to develop a set of tools that will help to improve the use of LMI in European universities. To support the decision-makers from HEI in using labour market information, an LMI Hub will be developed to aggregate LMI sources useful for HEI and a guide will be made available to help HEI to use LMI in planning their activity. Direct target groups are higher education institutions which can learn how better use the labour market intelligence sources to improve their curricula and adapt curricula to labour market demands. Indirect target group consists of policymakers and key stakeholders who will be better able to positively influence university provision.

The meeting will be focused on:

- Discussion on results from IO2
